HELLA is a globally positioned, independent, family-owned company with a history spanning more than 100 years. We develop electronic products for the automobile industry.

We are also involved in educational activities together with University of Craiova. For this purpose we founded Hella Embedded Club @ UCV. We propose to develop several extracurricular activities together with the students of University of Craiova. The purpose of the activities is to get the students more familiar with the professional environment in a multinational company and increase the student's interest for the embedded world.
